Brief Description of Project:

The proposed Whittier Hills Park Project is an estimated 4,000+ acres of hillside area lying north and northeast of the developed areas of the city and is contiguous to the existing Hellman Park (200 acres) and Murphy Ranch Park (48 acres) parksites within the City of Whittier. The proposed park would preserve portions of the last remaining chaparral, native oak woodlands and coastal sage scrub ecosystems within eastern Los Angeles County. Part of the acreage is designated Significant Ecological Areas by Los Angeles County. Numerous native plant and animal life are supported within this region.
